

VOICE ANNOTATIONS FOR SMART CARDS

ABSTRACT

The smart card, with a built-in microphone, is used to perform a transaction. The consumer may then record a voice annotation that is associated with the transactional data. The voice annotation is stored with the respective transactional data in the smart card memory. The voice annotation can later be played back or printed out with the respective transactional data.